Death Breakdown

1 kitten died under anesthesia while getting surgery done

43 kittens were neonatal and passed away (less than 6wks of age). This is approx 22% of the kittens we took in during this month in this age group. Many of the kittens die the same day or within a few days of birth due to natural causes. Oftentimes also the mother cats get exposed to various viruses in the shelter setting before coming to APA that can cause them to miscarry or to have kittens that can't thrive well. The accepted average survival rate for kittens and puppies that have a mother is 70%, no studies have been done to show survival rates for orphans but it is understood to be very low, typically less than 50%. APA has an annual survival rate for orphans typically on average of about 80-90%.

1 puppy died of distemper, 3 died of parvo, and 4 were neonatal pups.

Euthansia Breakdown

1 cat was euthanised for being FeLV+ and very sick

1 cat was euthanised for inoperable jaw cancer

1 eight day old kitten was brought to us from TLAC bleeding from the nose and mouth and unable to breath so was euthanised.

1 was a very young neonate, extremely sick and not getting better despite extensive treatment so was euthanised.

1 dog was euthanised for distemper that did not respond to treatment

Missing Breakdown

1 cat escaped from the foster's house. All attempts to find him again have been fruitless so far.
